

ABSTRACT

A computer system comprising a number of components which make up an infrastructure with the system having a Directory 10 and an APS which is adapted to centralise and automate information management for online service systems.